

Workers' Compensation

A class covering

- History of workers' compensation
- How to file and pursue a workers' compensation claim in West Virginia for injuries, occupational pneumoconiosis, and occupational diseases (including hearing loss)
- Dependent benefits

A booklet with the course outline, legal information, necessary forms and other materials will be provided.

Instructor:

Maroney Law Office

No fee to participants

6 to 9 p.m.

Thursday, November 3

Cold cuts and drinks provided for dinner

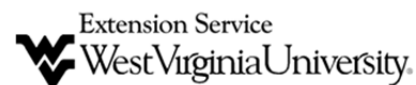

USW Local 2911 Union Hall

2971 West St., Weirton

Co-sponsored by

Brooke-Hancock Labor Council, AFL-CIO

and the Institute for Labor Studies and Research

To aid in planning materials and meal arrangements, please pre-register with the Institute for Labor Studies and Research by calling 800-499-0486 or send an e-mail to LaborStudies@mail.wvu.edu. Check our Web site – www.wvulaborstudies.org – for additional information or directions.

Programs and activities offered by the West Virginia University Extension Service are available to all persons without regard to race, color, sex, disability, religion, age, veteran status, political belief, sexual orientation, national origin, and marital or family status.